LET'S LEARN!

Illnesses and Health Problems

"What is the matter with?" kalıbını bir kişinin sağlık durumunu sormak için kullanırız.

Jack: What is the matter with you?

Rick: I have a terrible toothache.

Lisa: What is the matter with Emily?

Carl: She has a headache.

Should / Shouldn't

"Should" ifadesini tavsiyede bulunurken kullanırız. Birisine bir şeyi yapmaması konusunda tavsiyede bulunurken ise "should not" yapısını kullanırız.

James: I have the flu.

Matt: You should see a doctor. You shouldn't drink cold drinks.

Pam: My brother has a headache.

Tina: He should take a painkiller.

Charlie is in the bed. He feels tired. He is really unhappy. He doesn't want to go out. He wants to stay in bed. His mother enters his room. She asks her son:

Linda : What is the matter with you?

Charlie: Errrrr... I don't know. I feel terrible.

Linda : I think you should see a doctor. Let's go to the hospital.

Charlie: Okay, mum.

Does Charlie feel okay?

Charlie: I am ready, mum.

Linda : OK, sweetie.

Charlie: I am afraid of doctors, mum. Can we stay at home? I think I feel better.

Linda : Don't be afraid of doctors, honey. They try to help and treat ill people. We can't be safe or healthy without doctors.

Charlie: Should I stay in hospital?

Linda : I don't think so.

What is Charlie afraid of?

Charlie is in the garden of the hospital with his mother. There are a lot of ill people in the garden. Some of them should see a doctor and some of them should go to the pharmacy to buy some medicine. Charlie looks around and says:

Charlie: Are all these people sick, mum?

Linda: Yes, most of them are ill.

Charlie: They look really tired and bad.

Linda: They are here because they want to get better.

Why should people go to the pharmacy?

Linda : My cousin works in this hospital. She can examine you.

Charlie : Is she a nurse here?

Linda : No, she isn't. She is a doctor. She likes helping ill kids.

Charlie : Look, mum. There is a boy over there. He has a broken arm.

Linda : He shouldn't move his arm. He shouldn't carry anything with his arm.

Charlie : He should walk carefully.

Linda : That's right.

Is Linda's cousin a doctor?

CITY HOSPITAL

Charlie and Linda enter the hospital. They start to wait in the waiting room. There are some other children in the waiting room. The other children are together with their parents. They wait for the doctor. They have different health problems. Charlie feels bored and wants to talk with a girl near him.

Charlie : What is the matter with you?

Maggie: I have a sore throat. My throat hurts.

Charlie : Do you cough?

Maggie: Yes, I do.

Charlie : Do you feel cold?

Maggie: No, I don't. What about you? What is your problem?

Charlie : I feel sick. I feel terrible.

Maggie: Do you have a headache?

Charlie : No, I don't.

Maggie: Do you feel hot?

Charlie : No, I don't.

Maggie: That's quite interesting.

Charlie : Actually, I feel better now. I was worse at home.

Does Charlie have a headache?

Nurse : Maggie! Come here, please. Mrs White is waiting for you.

Maggie stands up and enters the doctor's room. Mrs White is a kind and helpful doctor. She is also cheerful. She likes helping ill children. She always smiles and helps them. She examines the ill children. She tells them what to do and gives medicine if necessary.

Mrs White: Welcome, Maggie. How are you?

Maggie : I feel bad. My throat hurts when I talk.

Mrs White: I think you have a sore throat. Let me see.

Is Mrs White a kind woman?

Mrs White: Do you cough?

Maggie : Yes, I do.

Mrs White: Okay, Maggie. You have a sore throat. Does your throat hurt a lot?

Maggie : No, it hurts a little.

Mrs White: I see. You should have a rest. You shouldn't talk too much. You shouldn't drink cold water. You should drink lukewarm water. You should drink a cough syrup. Get well soon.

Maggie : Thanks a lot.

What should Maggie do?

After Maggie goes out, a boy enters the room with his mother.
He is ill, too.

Mrs White: Hello. What is your name?

David : Hi. I am David.

Mrs White: What's the matter with you?

David : I feel bad. I have a terrible stomachache.

Mrs White touches David's stomach and she asks:

Mrs White: Does it hurt?

David : Yes, it does.

What is the matter with David?

Mrs White: OK. You have a stomachache. You should stay at home. You shouldn't go out.

David : My friend has a birthday party in the evening. Can I join the party?

Mrs White: No, you can't. You shouldn't leave home. You should have a rest. You should drink mint and lemon tea.

David : Okay, Mrs White. Thank you.

Mrs White: You're welcome. Get well soon.

What should David drink?

After David leaves the room, another ill girl comes in.

Mrs White: Good afternoon. What is your name?

Jane : Good afternoon. My name is Jane.

Mrs White: What is the matter with you, Jane?

Jane : I feel terrible. I sneeze. I have a runny nose.

Mrs White: Do you feel cold?

Jane : Yes, I do.

Mrs White: Do you feel hot?

Jane : No, I don't.

Who has a runny nose?

Mrs White: Do you have a headache?

Jane : No, I don't have a terrible headache.

Mrs White: You have the flu.

Jane : Really? What should I do?

Mrs White: You should have a rest. You shouldn't go to school. You should stay in a bed today. You should sleep well. You should drink hot drinks. You should take vitamin C.

Jane : Thank you very much.

Mrs White: Not at all.

What is the matter with Jane?

After Jane goes out, Charlie and Linda come in. Mrs White and Linda are cousins. They become really happy when they see each other and they hug. After they chat for a few minutes, Mrs White talks to Charlie:

Mrs White: What is wrong with you?

Charlie : Well, I don't know. I feel tired.

Mrs White: Do you feel cold?

Charlie : No, I don't.

Mrs White: Do you feel hot?

Charlie : No, I don't.

Who is Linda's cousin?

Mrs White: Have you got a sore throat?

Charlie : No, I haven't.

Mrs White: Have you got a headache?

Charlie : No, I haven't.

Mrs White: You don't have a high temperature. There isn't anything wrong with your eyes and mouth. Do you have an ache in your body?

Charlie : Yes, my back hurts.

Mrs White: Let me see it.

Does Charlie have a sore throat?

When Mrs White touches Charlie's back, he says 'It hurts.'

Mrs White: You have a terrible backache.

Charlie : Really? What should I do?

Mrs White: You should be careful. You shouldn't carry heavy things.
You should have a rest. You shouldn't move fast for a few days. You should stay at home.

Charlie : Can I go to the playground? Because I feel bored at home.

Mrs White: I'm sorry, but you can't.

What is wrong with Charlie?

Charlie : Should I take a painkiller?

Mrs White: Does your back hurt a lot?

Charlie : No, it doesn't.

Mrs White: You shouldn't take a painkiller, then. When it hurts a lot, you can take a painkiller.

Charlie : Thank you very much, Mrs White.

Mrs White: You're welcome. Goodbye.

Charlie : Bye.

Linda : Goodbye.

Should Charlie take a painkiller?

Linda and Charlie leave the hospital. They are in the garden now. They meet Charlie's uncle there. They talk.

Linda : Hello, Frank. What is the matter with you?

Frank : Hello, Linda. I have a terrible toothache. It hurts a lot. I can cry here.

Charlie : Really? That's so bad. You should see a dentist immediately.

Frank : You're right, so I am here now.

Charlie : Is there a dentist here?

Frank : Yes, of course.

Who is Frank?

Charlie : Does it hurt a lot?

Frank : Unfortunately, yes.

Charlie : You shouldn't eat candies. You shouldn't eat sweet things. You should eat healthy things.

Frank : That's true. I promise I will. What is the matter with you?

Charlie : I have a backache.

Frank : Really? I'm so sad. Get well soon.

Charlie : Thanks.

Linda : I want to go home immediately. I feel really tired.

Charlie: Do you need anything, mum?

Linda : Yes, I do. I want to drink fresh orange juice.

Charlie: Well, that's cool. We can go to the supermarket and buy some oranges.

Linda : We shouldn't go to the supermarket. It is far away from our house. Oranges are heavy. We can't carry them.

Charlie: Oh, mum. I can carry them.

What does Linda want?

Linda : Don't forget! You have a backache, so you shouldn't carry heavy things.

Charlie : You're right. What should we do?

Linda : We should go to the greengrocer's near our house.
We can buy oranges from the greengrocer's.

Charlie : And it is easy to carry the bags to our house.

Linda : That's true.

When Charlie and Linda come to the greengrocer's, they meet Steve, Charlie's father, there. They buy some oranges, talk about the day and walk to their house.

Why shouldn't Charlie carry heavy bags?
